

Learn more at: www.fordschool.umich.edu/courses

Check out this Fall 2014 Public Policy Course:

Non-Ford School students are welcome!
Seats are limited, so be sure to register early.

Future of the American Research University

PubPol 750.002

3 credits

Tu 4:00-7:00p.m.

1110 Weill

Instructor: J. Duderstadt

Although the American research university serves as a key source of basic research, advanced education, and infrastructure critical to the nation's welfare, it faces many challenges such as shifting public policies, changing demographics, globalization, and disruptive technologies. These topics will be considered from an array of policy perspectives at the state, national, and international level, using the University of Michigan as a case study.